County Commissioners' Committee.

Yesterday the county commissioners' committee on court house and jail met and audited the monthly bills. Nothing was transacted out of the regular routine. To-day the poor house and farm committee will meet and go out to the infirmary for the monthly inspection of the premises.

Transfers Recorded.

Clerk Hook yesterday admitted to record transfers of real estate as follows: January 23, by Frederick Miller and wife, to Edouard Lopent and wife, for $315, lot 11 in division J of the Joseph Caldwell estate.
September 11, 1895, by J. R. Handian and wife to Mary E. Handian, for $1,200, lot 2 in square 21, on Water street, in the Eighth ward.

Squire Gillespie's Court.

Squire Gillespie last night gave Tom Coffee a hearing at the office of the county jail and gave him ten days in jail, in which time it is thought Coffee ought to settle.

Jennie Lucia was fined $5 and costs. On the joint charge with Grant Lindsey, the hearing was set for next Tuesday.

The hearing in the Murphy case was put off for ten days.

He Broke His Leg.

William Uselton, an employee of the city gas works, and a brother of Samuel Uselton, the councilman, met with a very serious accident yesterday. While on his way to his home from downtown, he slipped on the frosty pavement, and fell in such a way that his leg was bent under him and the bone was broken. He was hauled to his home in the patrol wagon, and will be laid up for some time.

The Health Committee Meets.

Yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock the health committee on health met. There was the usual difficulty in getting a quorum, but finally enough members got together to transact business. The pending bills were gone over and bills aggregating $677 63 were approved and recommended to council for payment. The bill of Dr. Walden, ex-health officer, was sent back to him to be itemized.

In the Courts.

Yesterday in the criminal court Judge Hugus on the bench, the motion for a new trial in the case of "Roxy" O'Neal, convicted of petty larceny, with a count in the indictment for former conviction, was argued and submitted to the court, which reserved its decision.

In Judge Campbell's part of the circuit court the content over the will of the late Mary Armbruster was put on trial.

Judge Paul's court was not in session.

On a Serious Charge.

Officers from Belmont county, Ohio, were in Moundsville yesterday for the purpose of arresting a young married man, one Ramsey, who is charged with criminal assault in that county. After securing the necessary papers the man was found and arrested and taken before Squire L. H. Criswell, where he waived an examination. Mr. B. F. Meighen appearing in his behalf. The young man being willing to go over the river with the officers without requisition papers, he was taken to Jacobburg, where he will be tried for the offense to-day. Mr. Meighen will represent the defendant.

ELECTED OFFICERS.

Meeting of Central Glass Works Directors. Scott is President.

Yesterday afternoon at the office of the factory, the directors of the Central glass works met and organized by electing the following officers:

President—N. B. Scott.
Secretary—A. F. Meder.
Treasurer—John Yeager.
During the day the new stockholders of the works and the general public as well, took advantage of the invitation to inspect a glass house in operation. The jam was so great at one time that police officers were called in to bring order out of chaos.

Glass was made yesterday afternoon for the first time. About 100 men are now employed and before the close of the week the force will be increased to 250 men.

In Olden Times.

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action; but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well informed people will not buy any other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

NOT a few who read what Mr. Robert Bowls, of Hollands, Va., has to say below, will remember their own experience under like circumstances: "Last winter I had in gripe which left me in a low state of health. I tried numerous remedies, none of which did me any good, until I was induced to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The first bottle of it so far relieved me that I was enabled to attend to my work, and the second bottle effected a cure." For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

THE APPLES OF OLD.

They Have Disappeared from the Markets These Times.

NAMES ONLY REMAIN TO-DAY.

Nobody Has Yet Been Able to Explain why the Russet is Not a Russet This Year, or why the Baldwin is a Reproach to Its Name—What Has Become of the Rambo?—The Integrity of the Old-Fashioned Apple Seems to Have Been Impaired in the Past Year.

It was remarked in the Intelligencer not long ago that there seemed to be something wrong with the apples this year. Nobody has seen a russet worthy of the name—the old-fashioned golden russet with the rough, orange-colored skin, which has been popular for several generations. This year, apple experts say, the russets "look like Rhode Island greenings and taste like sawdust." Nobody has ventured to guess why, unless it was due to the unusually dry summer; but it is a fact that the russets are smooth-skinned and green. Besides this, the apples from the trees which used to bear russets spoil early. They used to be late in ripening in the cellar. J. G. Holland, in "Bitter-sweet," said: That is a barrel of russets. But we can hardly discuss its Spheres of frost and flint. Till, written by the thoughts of spring. And the old tree blossoming. Their best taste is a yellow tint. And the pulp grows mellow in it. But oh! when they're sick with the savors Of sweets that they dream of. Sure all the toothsome flavors They hold the cream of. You will be begging in May In your irresistible way For a peek of the apples in gray.

This year no man who has sampled them would be willing to beg, buy or eat a peck of the alleged russets. A man who deals in apples said to an Intelligencer reporter the other day that the real fact was the old apples had all run out and no attention was paid to producing new ones. The whole idea now seems to be to make them big and red. Yet of all the late varieties none approach the Baldwin for ruddy glow, or the rambo for flavor, or the Rhode Island greenings as "cookers."

The old gate apples are not to be found in this market this year. These old, rich ones which used to be favorites, seem to have disappeared with the "lady fingers" and all the rest. The Roman Beauties and the Northern Spies, too, have apparently become a mere reminiscence. The blue pears, which can also be searched for in vain, Holland said of them:

These are the pears. I think— Blaud and insipid as eggs: They were too lazy to drink The light of its dress. And left upon the mind— A delicate film of blue— Leave them alone; I can find Better apples for you.

Still they were a favorite apple, as the "moneysuch" and the "seek-no-further." The apple dealer quoted above declares that the apple industry is neglected by the horticulturist, and that his lack of appreciation of what the public wants, and not the phenomenal weather, is to blame for the decadence of the apple. The orchards, formerly of the object of great care, have been neglected. Said he: "There is a good article for household consumption in the apple business; write it up."

The amount of money spent for apples in Wheeling in a year would surprise anybody who has not observed the business. Lately the yield in the immediate vicinity has not been very good, and Michigan and northern New York have furnished thousands of barrels to the local trade. The trouble is probably as the dealer quoted puts it—the local orchards have been neglected.

Harrison as "Old Lavender."

Last night a good audience, though smaller than it should have been, saw Edward Harrison and his company at the Opera House in the famous play, "Old Lavender." The audience was appreciative throughout, the pathetic scenes bringing tears and the funny ones causing almost convulsive laughter at times. Mr. Harrison is as fine an actor as when he was winning his fame. Mr. Dan Collier, as Smoke, the "nigger dog thief," was natural enough to make Johnny or anybody else get his sun. Dave Abraham, Jr., as "de rat," was the typical tough-good boy of his class. The cast was very satisfactory throughout, and the piece made a distinct hit.

THE HUB CLOTHIERS AND FURNISHERS.

A FRUITFUL SEARCH

We have been through our Boys' Clothing Department from stem to stern, hunting out the broken lots in Boys' Overcoats, Boys' Reefers and Boys' Odd Trousers. There are hundreds of Suits, hundreds of Overcoats and scores of Reefers. This morning we give the prices a push that will put them where you will be eager to buy them. These odds and ends are the penalty of the immense Boys' Clothing trade we do. It cannot be helped, so we go it blind, and the public comes in for the benefit. Do not forget that they are THE HUB Suits and Overcoats and we stand behind them just the same.
